

Note of Appreciation for responsibly declaring a vulnerability

April 2023

Dear Athul,

This letter is written in appreciation and recognition of your efforts in security vulnerability research. While we were not able to financially reward you for the vulnerability that you reported to us due to our policies, we certainly recognize the fact that you were able to detect this particular vulnerability accurately.

The ability to detect and report on security vulnerabilities is a valuable skill in the information security industry. It is encouraging to see that there is a growing contingent of younger researchers, like you, who are pursuing this career. I hope that you will accept this letter as a token of my appreciation for your efforts in detecting the vulnerability. We are all in this together as a security community and your participation and expertise are commended.

Sincerely,

Piyush Chaurasia

Sr. Manager Information Security
Embibe